

Acknowledgements

I would like to thank the very generous turtle people around who graciously offered information, articles, and photos to help make this a better book. It is their passion for their animals that keeps this work we do so important. They are Russ Gurley, Andy Highfield, Nadine Highfield, Bill Love, Ellis Greiner DVM, Julie Maguire, Paula Morris, Dave Lee, Melissa Kaplan, James Badman, Richard Funk DVM, Michelle Hurd, Jerry Fife, Rick Reed, Mary Schiltz, Dean Wallace DVM, Marty LaPrees, Bob Ashley, Joe and Karen Heinen, Jim Ebenhack, Ryan Hechinger, Joel Mills, Friederike Erlinghagen, Susan Mohring, Dr. Vijay D. Anand (A Rocha India), Indraneil Das, Euthman, Ansem de Silva, Xavier Springer, Brian Ebenhack, Keith Begin, David Thraen, Jim Barzyk, Torsten Blanck, Gerald Kuchling, Harriet Forrester, Oliver Römpp, Richard Fife, and Lark Fife. Also, the Zoological Education Network, Emporia State University, the Georgia Sea Turtle Center, and the Center for Disease Control and Prevention.

And especially Orlando Diaz-Figueroa, DVM, MS, Dipl. ABVP, who continues to make time for injured native Florida turtles and tortoises.

Also, so many people have let me photo graph their enclosures and animals. I have been amazed at the wonderful, creative environments that captive chelonians are enjoying out there. These creative keepers include Wayne Hill, Russ Gurley, Jerry Fife, Pat Ruby, Kurt Edwards, Rusty Mills, Keith Begin, and Richard Fife. Thank you again for your generosity and hospitality and for sharing your wonderful animals and thoughtful work with turtle and tortoise keepers everywhere!

Dedication

This book is dedicated to my dear friend, Barb Bonner DVM. She and I were supposed to do this book together. I will never forget working with her for a week straight in 2003 on a huge Asian turtle rescue. I commented on a shirt she was wearing and she literally gave it to me off her back. I tried to say no but she insisted! Barb was just as generous with her knowledge as her time, and she had an incredible amount of patience with difficult turtle cases. As I work with sick and injured turtles and tortoises, I constantly ask myself, 'What would Barb do?' in difficult situations. I miss her very much.

Barb Bonner DVM and Bear, 2003. Photo by Pat Ruby.

I would also like to dedicate this book to Another dearly departed friend, Ray Ashton. His conservation work with Gopher tortoises will never be forgotten.

Table of Contents

Introduction . . . . .	1
Chapter ONE: So You Want to Become a Turtle Rehabilitator? .	5
Chapter TWO: Turtle Anatomy . . . . .	17
Chapter THREE: Stress . . . . .	41
Chapter FOUR: Diet and Nutrition . . . . .	49
Edible Plants list . . . . .	59
Chapter FIVE: Hydration and Dehydration . . . . .	69
Chapter SIX: Husbandry in Indoor Enclosures . . . . .	79
Chapter SEVEN: Husbandry in Outdoor Enclosures . . . . .	101
An Overview of Chelonian Hibernation (Brumation) . . . . .	112
Chapter EIGHT: Rescuing Turtles from Roadways . . . . .	123
Chapter NINE: Examining Your Turtle from Head to Toe . . . . .	131
Chapter TEN: Shell Conditions . . . . .	143
Chapter ELEVEN: Shell Fractures, Wound Care, and Other Injuries . . . . .	167
Chapter TWELVE: Tube Feeding Turtles . . . . .	210
Chapter THIRTEEN: Bacterial and Viral Diseases . . . . .	220
Chapter FOURTEEN: Parasites . . . . .	260
Chapter FIFTEEN: Miscellaneous Conditions . . . . .	288

Toxic Plant list . . . . .	290
Chapter SIXTEEN: Antibiotics In Chelonians . . . . .	325
Chapter SEVENTEEN: Diagnostics . . . . .	335
Sexing Turtles and Tortoises with an Endoscope . . . . .	352
Appendix I: Practical Checklist for Hibernation (Brumation) . . . . .	353
Appendix II: Incubation Times . . . . .	355
Appendix III: Caring for Hatchlings . . . . .	357
Taking Turtles and Tortoises from the Wild . . . . .	361
Releasing Rehabilitated Turtles Back Into Their Natural Environment . . . . .	363
Releasing Turtles into the Wild . . . . .	365
Resources . . . . .	366
Literature Cited . . . . .	367
Suggested Reading . . . . .	372
INDEX . . . . .	388
About the Author . . . . .	394